

Spray paint vandalism is a crime

Spray paint vandalism or “graffiti” is the unauthorized etching, painting or placing of a mark on public or private property.

While some people may hear the word graffiti and think of it as an art form or a mode of freestyle expression, the reality is that graffiti is an act of vandalism that costs Winnipeg taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to remove or cover.

Tagging is destructive

The most common type of graffiti in the city of Winnipeg is “tagging” which is the writing and/or painting of an identifiable symbolic character or “tag” that may or may not contain letters. The tag becomes a “signature” for the vandal who may experience pride and a developing recognition among other taggers.

- Tagging Graffiti – Individuals involved in this form of graffiti refer to themselves as taggers or graffiti writers. They gain fame and status from other taggers by painting their distinctive tags in as many places as possible. They may also paint “pieces,” which are highly stylized murals. This form of graffiti is usually illegible to the untrained eye and intended to be seen by other taggers.
- Gang Graffiti – This form of graffiti is less common and gang members or their associates are responsible. Gang graffiti is a method of communication that is used to promote a gang, mark territory, recruit new members or to intimidate a neighbourhood.

In either circumstance, vandals disregard the rights of property owners, seek notoriety and generally disrespect community rules, laws and consequences.

Anything but a “victimless” crime

Spray paint vandalism often occurs on public property meaning bridges, utility boxes, and signage; individual citizens can be directly affected when they find their garages, vehicles and fences have been “tagged”.

In addition to the associated costs with removal, graffiti can result in an area looking unsafe or intimidating. It reduces property values and can create an open invitation for more littering, loitering and can invite even more vandalism. It may also lead to an increase in other criminal behaviour and acts of violence. And overall, a graffiti-ridden city does not leave a good impression with tourists and other visitors.

The Graffiti Removal team is on the job as quickly as possible year-round. The City spends over $1 million annually on graffiti removal.

Helpful tips for graffiti removal

The following information is to be used as a guide only.

Non-Sensitive Surfaces

(painted wood siding, painted concrete, etc.)

- Apply a stain-killing primer or pigmented shellac. This seals the graffiti and keeps it from bleeding through fresh paint.
- Repaint the surface with an appropriate colour. Poor paint jobs can lead to more graffiti; try to match.

Sensitive Surfaces

(brick, stucco, metal, glass, etc.)

Brick, Cement, Concrete

- Use extra strength paint remover or graffiti remover. Apply with a wire brush and allow it to dry. Rinse with a forceful stream of water.

Stucco

- Use paint remover and wash off with a high-pressure water hose.
- Use stucco paint and carefully cover graffiti.

Metal, Aluminum Siding, Fiberglass

- Use carburetor cleaner.
- Use paint remover sparingly; rinse carefully.

Glass, Plexiglass

- Use carburetor cleaner if regular cleaners do not work. Use caution with Plexiglass as it scratches easily.
