GENERAL FITNESS ASSESSMENT:

The goals of the general Fitness Assessment is to provide a simple, safe, and standardized approach to assessing the major components of fitness in apparently healthy individuals and to interpret these assessments based on norms and percentiles for Canadians 15 to 69 years of age.

The General Fitness Assessment tests are completed one right after the other but there is no time limit. Applicants are to achieve a minimum score of “good” on each fitness assessment test to earn a pass for this section.

1. Heart Rate, < 100/min
   The heart is a muscle like any other muscle in the body; to become stronger it must be exercised regularly. The resting heart rate reflects this strength. A stronger heart is able to pump more blood with each beat; therefore fewer beats will be required to get an adequate amount of blood (and thus oxygen) to the tissue. The lowering of your heart rate can result in significant saving of the heartbeats per day. Over a lifetime this will undoubtedly result in a great deal less "wear and tear" on this most vital organ. Improved efficiency of the heart is perhaps the most plausible explanation for a reduced incidence of circulatory disease in the active individual.

2. Blood Pressure, <150/100
   Blood pressure is the pressure of the blood against the walls of the arteries. The walls of the arteries are elastic and muscular. The arteries stretch and relax in response to the increases and decreases in blood pressure. Each time the heart contracts, blood flow and blood pressure in the arteries increase. This pressure when the heart contracts is known as systolic pressure. When the heart relaxes, blood flow and blood pressure in the arteries decrease. This pressure during relaxation is known as diastolic pressure. The more difficult it is for the blood to flow through the arteries, the higher the blood pressure.

3. Body Composition (Weight and Height)
   Body Mass Index (BMI) is the relationship between a person’s height and weight. A high BMI score may be the result of excessive fat or from a high degree of muscularity. If an applicant has a low percentage of body fat and high BMI score it is due to his muscularity.

4. Aerobic Fitness
   The most common method of expressing your cardiovascular endurance or maximal aerobic power is in terms of your maximal volume of oxygen consumption, VO2 max. Simply stated, to perform aerobic or endurance activities, your muscles must have oxygen to burn the fuel required to make them work. This essential gas is carried into the lungs with each breath of air and transported in the blood to the working muscles where it is used to drive the muscles machine.

   Aerobic fitness, then, is the combined efficiency of your lungs, heart, bloodstream, and local muscles in getting the oxygen to these muscles and using it to perform work. For this reason, cardiovascular endurance or aerobic fitness is the most important component of physical fitness. The higher your VO2 max, the greater is your functional capacity. With a larger aerobic capacity, daily activities require less effort and leave a bigger reserve for pursuing recreational activities and dealing with emergencies should they arise.

   The most suitable cardiovascular assessment will be chosen.
Single-Stage Treadmill Walking Test:
For this protocol, walking speed is individualized depending on the applicant's age, gender and fitness level. Walking pace is established during a 4-minute warm-up at 0% grade. After this, the applicant continues the brisk walking pace for an additional 4 minutes at 5% grade, continued by 2 minute cool down.

YMCA Bicycle Ergometer Submaximal Exercise Protocol or 12 Minute Bicycle Test:
This protocol uses three or four consecutive 3-minute workloads on the bicycle ergometer. The pedal rate is 50 rpm. The workload increases after each stage.

The combination of the heart rate, workload, weight, gender and age are used to predict the maximal oxygen consumption (VO2 max). The greater the exercise intensity and the lower the heart rate, the greater the VO2 max. VO2 max is recorded in litres per minute (1min-1) as the absolute amount and relative to applicant’s own body weight expressed in milliliters per kilogram of body weight per minute (ml kg-1 min-1). The latter units are more commonly used so individuals of different sizes can be more fairly compared to each other.

Muscular Strength / Muscular Endurance
Muscular strength is the ability of a muscle or muscle group to exert maximal force (contraction) in one all-out effort (eg. opening a tight jar). Muscular endurance is the ability of a muscle or muscle group to exert a submaximal force over a long period of time (eg. carrying a bag of groceries for five blocks). For both, the intensity of work is greater than that for aerobic endurance.

Although separately defined, muscular strength and endurance are closely interrelated and are on a continuum with strength at one end and muscular endurance at the opposite end. All activities lie along the continuum and therefore involve some combination of muscular endurance and muscular strength.

In order to increase your muscular strength and endurance, your muscles must be overloaded. This overload can come from your body weight, the use of weights or some type of resistance. The amount of the overload and the number of repetitions performed determine where along the continuum the activity falls.

Grip Strength:
Measure of forearm strength and may be related to total body strength.

Push-Ups:
Measure of upper body strength and endurance.

Males:
The applicant lies on his stomach, legs together. His hands, pointing forward, are positioned under the shoulders. He then pushes up from the floor by fully extending the elbows and using toes as the pivot point. The applicant returns to the starting position. Neither the stomach nor thighs should touch the mat.

Females:
Same as males except using the knees as the pivot point. The lower legs remain in contact with the floor, ankles plantar-flexed, and feet in contact with the floor. Incorrect repetitions will not be counted. The test is stopped when applicant are seen to strain forcibly or are unable to maintain correct technique over two consecutive repetitions. There is no time limit.
Partial Curl-Ups:
Measure of abdominal strength and endurance. Applicant lies in a supine position with the head resting on the mat, arms straight at sides and parallel to the trunk, palms of hands in contact with the mat, fingertips at the 0 mark. Knees are bent 90, keeping heels in contact with the mat and shoes on. Metronome is set at 50 beats/min. This is followed by curling up of the upper spine far enough so that the middle finger tips of both hands reach the 12cm mark (for 39 years and under) and 8 cm mark (for 40 years and over). On the return, the shoulder blades and head must contact the mat and the fingertips of both hands must touch the 0 mark. The test is stopped when the applicant’s pace does not match the metronome, severe discomfort occurs, or when technique breaks down. Applicants are allowed a maximum of 3 corrections or 2 consecutive incorrect reps – then the test is stopped. The applicant performs as many consecutive curl-ups as possible, without pausing, to a maximum of 75.

Back Extension:
Back extension is measured using portable steps and a timer. The applicant lies face down on at the top of the steps with the iliac crest (pelvic region) positioned at the edge of the steps, while keeping the hips, shoulders and head aligned (keeping a straight back while contracting abdominal muscles). The applicant’s lower body will be secured to the steps using supportive straps. The applicant raises the upper half of their torso and crosses their arms on their chest, then maintains the horizontal position for as long as possible without dropping or rotating the torso for a maximum of 180 seconds. If the applicant’s torso drops or rotates, they will be given one warning and then the test will be stopped.

6. Flexibility
The range of motion at each joint is a measure of the flexibility or suppleness of that joint. Movement at a joint site is limited by bone structure, elasticity of connective tissue and muscle tissue, and ligament support. Therefore, flexibility varies from joint to joint.

Lower Back Flexibility:

The purpose of the interview is to assess your ability to understand and adhere to our core values and the character traits required to be successful in this position. Applicants will be provided with realistic work-related scenarios and each scenario of its own requires the candidate to demonstrate a key competency. The interview also consists of a number of behaviour based interview questions on specific competencies and you will be asked to describe your related experience and provide specific examples. As part of the interview team we will assess the candidate’s response based on the requirement of the competencies as well as their communication skills, general demeanor and deportment and the candidate will need to reflect the expected behavior. Applicants need to successfully achieved a score of 60% or higher in this assessment. Those who do not meet the requirements of Step 3 will be advised in writing of their eligibility to re-apply.

STEP 4: SELECTION COMMITTEE / ELIGIBILITY LIST

Once you successfully advance to this step, your file has reached the point where a decision is made. All data is compiled and your file is presented to a Selection Committee. The purpose of the Selection Committee is to offer an objective perspective on your suitability for this position to determine placement on an eligibility list. The decision is based on consideration of your competencies, skills, and job fit.

The Department’s hiring needs are difficult to predict and fluctuate as a result of a number of factors (i.e. retirements, city growth, funding / resource availability, etc.). This may mean you have successfully advanced through the recruitment process and will be considered for further consideration for a future recruit class for this position. The eligibility list remains active and does not expired until exhausted. During this period of being on an eligibility list, you do not need to reapply or retest. Please note that being placed on an eligibility list does not constitute an expressed or implied contract or offer of employment for a position with Winnipeg Fire Paramedic Service or any other position with the City of Winnipeg. Those who did not meet the requirements of Step 4 will be advised in writing of their eligibility to re-apply.

PASS
▷ A panel reviews entire application file to determine if applicant is suitable.
▷ If successful, applicant may be placed on an eligibility list until there are enough open positions available in the department.

FAIL
▷ Will be advised in writing of eligibility to re-apply.
▷ Will need to indicate in application any initiatives engaged in to improve skills.
▷ Start again at Step 1 if eligible to re-apply.
STEP 5: REFERENCE CHECKS / CONDITIONAL OFFER OF EMPLOYMENT / MEDICAL ASSESSMENT:

Prior to offering employment, the City of Winnipeg requires that new hires are referenced checked to assess the candidate’s suitability for the position. If and when the Department considers an applicant for a conditional offer of employment, at that time reference checks will be conducted. Selected candidates will be provided a conditional offer of employment, and will be scheduled to undergo and pass a medical examination administered by the City of Winnipeg’s Occupational Health Branch which includes illegal drug use testing. Any outstanding documentation from the Checklist of Requirements – Section A and B will be required prior to an offer of employment. Those who did not meet the requirements of Step 5 will be advised in writing of their eligibility to re-apply.

➢ Will need to indicate in application any initiatives engaged in to improve skills
➢ Start again at Step 1 if eligible to re-apply

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS – SELECTION PROCESS:

Question: How long is the selection process?

Unfortunately, there isn’t a set time frame to follow as the hiring needs of our department fluctuates and are dependent on outside factors such as retirements, funding, city growth, legislation, etc.

It may be necessary for us to “speed up” or “slow down” our process in order to meet operational needs.

You may be asked to participate in one or more assessments in a short period of time or you may need to wait a period of time until sufficient resources are available.

Question: How often should I expect to hear from the recruitment personnel?

We attempt to keep you informed and current with information as it is relevant to the status of your file.

It is your responsibility to keep us informed if you have a change in contact information or if you will be unavailable for a period of time (i.e. on vacation, out of the country, etc.).

Question: Will I be notified if I am determined to be ineligible for the next step in the process?

Yes. We will notify all applicants of their standing in the process in writing.

Although we will attempt to notify all candidates as soon as they are disqualified you may not receive notification until the recruitment process is complete.

Question: How are applications assessed?

Each application is assessed based on the qualifications outlined in the job posting.

When you submit your application online, you may be asked a number of screening questions that help us to further assess your qualification for the position.

This information is then forwarded to the hiring supervisor for final screening. Your application package will be assessed for compliance and completeness.

A review of your file will be conducted to determine your eligibility.

You will be advised if you are advancing to the next stage or if not, of your eligibility to re-apply.

Question: How can I find out the status of my application / will someone contact me, and if so, when?

The timeframe for filling a position depends on a number of factors, including the number of applications received. All candidates which applied will be contacted.

As a practice, upon closing of the competition, unsuccessful applicants will receive an email or letter advising them that they were not successful.

Question: It has been some time since I submitted my application. If I haven’t heard anything does this mean I am not being considered?

You will be notified as to our decision regarding your application. Our typical method of notification is by email.

There are many steps involved in our pre-screening process. This course of action can take some time to complete and your patience is appreciated.
If you haven’t heard anything for a while, it may be that your package was incomplete or there is important information missing or requiring clarification. If this is the case, it will result in a delay in the processing of your application and our response back to you.

You may wish to pro-actively think back to the information and documents that you submitted to try and identify what is missing and if possible, produce new items to rectify any deficiencies.

In compliance with provincial and municipal legislation, we will only provide a status update to the applicant. In the interest of protecting the privacy of the individual, we cannot release this information to family, friends or associations to the candidate.
